I just read these news, and I'm so happy about it, just need to share!

This year's Stockholm Pride Festival (27 July - 2 August 2009) will open with a whole evening of celebrating Dusty Springfield!

It's only just been announced on <http://www.stockholmpride.org/2009/Pride-Park/Nyheter/>, so the contributing artists are still TBA, but it sounds like a great way to open Pride week!

Also, Marc Almond has just been confirmed for the big concert on Saturday night.

It'll work if you delete the comma:

Well spotted Kristel! 😊 Of course, it didn't do us English speakers a whole lot of good, but nice to see anyway! 😊

Aw if you only all could come, we'd have another Dusty Day here! 🍷

... Thanx, Annie - Will's an avatar wizard!

And I would love to meet you too, Memphis! I always enjoy immensely reading your posts. Next year?

Cor, for those of us who don't read Swedish: if it's not too much trouble could you give us a rough translation of the bit about Dusty?

thanks!

I had hoped Pride had updated their English site by now, but no luck there. 😞 Here's a translation of the bit about Dusty.

"Pride Park's programme is beginning to materialize. The park opens on Wednesday with a tribute to Dusty Springfield. Springfield had many hits in the 60's and 70's, best known are Son of a preacher man and I just don't know what to do with myself. Towards the end of her life, Dusty Springfield spoke about her love of women, since society made it impossible for the star to be out as a homosexual earlier.

- The choice of a Dusty Springfield tribute combines two goals, to highlight the issue about how the heteronorm restricts homosexuals, bi- and transpeople, combined with creating a musical experience beyond the ordinary, says Fredrik Thorell, responsible for Pride's stage shows."

They didn't get the facts about Dusty 100% right, but it's a good effort. I'll keep you updated as the artists for the tribute are announced.
