This film now at a cinema near you is about the Pirate Radio Scene of the Sixties. Dusty got a lot of airplay from the pirates- so let's hope that Dusty's music features in the soundtrack.

It does, I mentioned it somewhere else. Just the obvious YDHTSYLM, but I'd have been vexed if she wasn't on there. I don't think it's in the cinemas till 1st April though is it?

Thanks Carole - I plan to see this one when I get chance - I loved the Pirate Radio Era. The best reception in Sheffield was from RADIO 270 - moored off the Yorkshire coast. They loved Dusty.

Unfortunately, yes, Will..I just cannot stand that man!..

Why does every British Rom/Com have to include bloomin' Bill Nighy? 🤔

Its the cast, which puts me off this film, but I hope to see it for the Soundtrack and I support the idea of them doing a film about the Pirate Ships.

About time, too... 😏😏

Apart from The 'Duffy? 🤔 question, I think the soundtrack looks bloomin' GREAT!...👍

..I shall see it, notwithstanding, Bill Nighy. 😬😬😬

Some good stuff there - The CD is out soon.

The Bowie LETS DANCE is out of place. Interested to see how Duffy performs her sixties classic.

I'll take it back if it's good but I really can't imagine Duffy doing Stay With Me. Guess she's in there to appeal to the younger market. And I also can't stand Bill Nighy or the guy who played Spike in Notting Hill, isn't he in it? Richard Curtis needs to spread his net a bit wider.

this film doesnt appeal to me I know it should but I just dont fancy it. I prefer the memories of trying to tune it in as the reception was so bad sometimes,oh and I dont think Duffy should be on there at all.

I agree Chris, can anyone beat Lorraine Ellison's version. In the radio programme Dusty as DJ (in both 79 and 89) Dusty included this track as one of her all time favourites. Lorraine has amazing power and control in her voice. I'm away for a day or so but I'll try and post up Lorraine's version soon.😬

It's a slightly messier film than Richard Curtis' other efforts. It tries to do and be a number of things and only succeeds at some of them. It's a very enthusiastic and funny film throughout though, so easy to forgive its shortcomings.

'You Don't Have To Say You Love Me' is played fairly prominently and the DJ who plays it cites Dusty as 'the greatest white soul singer' afterwards. It made me smile!

It's not so bad coming home to myself, again...

Hi
Just returned home after the movie.. Loved it!! It took me back to the Radio Caroline days.

Good fun film. Didn't like Duffys version of "Stay with me Baby" No way can she compete with Lorraine Ellison!! Maybe her name should be duff eh! Well for this song anyway.

Dusty did ydhtsylv. Great to hear the scene was well placed..

LOL.. Dougie xx

Hi
Just for curiosity I looked up Radio Caroline.
It is still operative here is the web site:

http://www.radiocaroline.co.uk/#home\_content.html\_\_0\_\_0\_\_1

Or you can listen to.

I was surprised to learn that Radio Caroline is still operating. I can get it out and clear on my computer. Now if I would only still get BBC :(.

Wasn't there another pirate ship operating in the 60's besides Radio Caroline? Does anyone recall?

Hi Marty

I think it was Radio London.

But I will check it out!!

Yeh! Thought so here is a link to read all about it.

Marty, although it wasn't pirate, I don't suppose you are thinking of Radio Luxembourg? That always transmitted widely..

Couldn't get Radio Lembourgh to play on my computer. It sounded like a CD that was skipping all over the place. Wonder if the signal is scrambled outside of the UK?
