Hello everybody

I just thought I would mention this since I had not read it in any other postings. I was on google news and saw that Dusty's old agent, Tito Burns, has died. Does anyone know if he spoke much about Dusty?

 Hey st.louis blues, where you been?

Don't be a stranger. That's a very good question! I'd like to know that myself. Although relations between artists and managers can sometimes be on the cold side.

Hope someone in the forum can answer that for us.

I hadn't heard about the death of Tito Burns, I haven't heard anything about him in a very long time. I'm not even sure at what time he stopped being Dusty's agent. I know that all the concert shows back in the sixties were down to him, he was agent for, amongst others, Gene Pitney, The Zombies and the Searchers, as well as Dusty, and they often all appeared on tour together. He also represented the Springfields before Dusty went solo. I do remember that when Dusty was deported from South Africa, Tito Burns was very vocal in her defence. I never saw a picture of him with Dusty, (unlike Vic Billings), but I must have seen pictures of him as I do remember his big moustache! Dusty and Vic got on very well, she thought of him as a friend, but I don't really remember any stories from Dusty about Tito Burns or vice versa.

I tried to post a pic of Tito Burns, but found only one, and got a warning that something with the pic's site was fishy. So won't post. Anyway, RIP Tito Burns.

😊 Thanks daydreamer. That was the sum of my observation. Read about a long business association between Dusty and Tito, but no real personal relationship. 🌹

👍 That's the resume of one sharp fellow, and a shrewd agent would never make any kind of comments regarding his clients. 🌱 I'll have to dig up that Don't Look Back movie just to see his appearance. ⭐
