I start counting

Tonight I received some very sad news from Gary Boyle (Dustys guitar player) who emailed me with the news that Derek Wadsworth (Dustys Trombone player, arranger and my good friend) had passed on. I don't have any details but I will call Patsy latter on tonight. Derek was a very fine Trombonist, a great arranger and one of the gentlemen of the industry. He will be sorely missed. MY sympathy and love goes to his son Max and Patsy. R.I.P. Derek you made a lot of people happy..

Hi Douggie, There is a thread dedicated to Derek just a little further down on this thread. It was very sad news indeed and we were all sorry to hear it. Hope you and the family are well.

Hi Douggie - I'm so sorry for the loss of your friend and colleague. At Dusty Day, he showed himself to be such a nice man and it is clear he was held in very high regard by a great many people. May he rest in peace.

Where am I going?

Yes, I was also very sorry to read this news, Douggie. 😞

I'm sad that you've lost a well loved friend and colleague.

Derek was obviously a well respected man, both for his musicianship and his engaging personality.

It was sad news indeed Duggie.

You must have many good memories of Derek to treasure.
