I'd have Dusty tattooed on my left big toe, and Roy Orbison on the right, and I'd make them duet all day.

Ok, sorry that was a disturbing image. 🤪

I wish we had HMV in Holland - I used to practically live in the one in Leeds. Most Dutch record shops don't sell ANY Dusty CDs, and the ones that do usually just have one or two of the budget compilations. 🇬🇧

When you get a cd player for your car purely to listen to Dusty. The best thing is when you are singing at the top of your voice and doing the hand actions to "Am I the same girl" and then you get everyone in the traffic jam looking at you. Priceless!

Since I am new to your site, spending time browsing on past threads and found this one. You all have mentioned things I have done and now I don't feel so silly anymore. Yes, I have an external hard drive so can save more songs. And I sometimes have to dance to Dusty's music, usually at work. Can anyone keep from dancing to 'Living Without Your Love'? But worst (best) of all, went and bought a DVD player that will play any format, including PAL in hopes that some day the shows that were on British TV will be available or someone there might have recorded them.

You get so much more about Dusty than we have available here in the USA.

Really enjoy the site and thanks for sharing your knowledge, music and pictures with fans like me.

Hey Misty!

Old Bosseh here is a Yank too, and they sure do get all the good stuff over in the UK. But the nice thing is that the Brits and the Aussies share their stuff with us--I can often get PAL stuff to play on a computer, but I want to get a multiregion player like you have.

Anyway, if there's anything you especially want, you can put up a request on I've Got a Good Thing...also I know you can order the latest PAL DVD (People Get Ready?) off the USA Let's Shop Dusty section of the website.

Anyway, welcome, and make yourself at home.

Hi Misty I have just sent off a couple of DVD's to allherfaces of the 8 part series Little by Little that was on Oz TV last year that she might copy and share with you when they arrive if you ask her nicely!

Also, my brother in Canada found that his elcheapo Wal Mart DVD player is all region while his expensive Panasonic isn't. The former plays every DVD I send him--the latter won't play them at all.

When you stop at traffic lights and have some one pull up next to you, windows down blasting some AWFUL music (some real bad hiphop/ dance music ..i dont know haha) and you decide they could use some taste, so you crank you stereo up with dusty full-bore and watch their faces when all they can hear is my music. not theres.

..yeh that was today. That driver asked for it tho! hehe.

Oh, and we had a thread about all region players....you could do a search....Millisa had a good recommendation and Paula actually brought one....less than $150. Apparently not all all-region players are created equally--you want a true plug and play....

I've managed to convert one friend with constant exposure to Dusty!

I just tell them I'm not risking my new CD player in the car... the last one packed up after I put a CD by someone else in it then when I put Dusty back in I couldn't eject it so it was Dusty or nothing permanently for a while until I got a new one... had to take the old player apart to get the CD out!!

Maybe it was her way of telling me not to play anyone else's music in my car?!?! 😬 🍋

I had a Sly and the Family Stone CD get stuck in my CD player (same thing...they had to take the whole thing apart) and I chalked it up to Dusty being annoyed that she wasn't playing 24/7.

when you spend bloody ages looking for a frame which will fit your signed Dusty LP - i found one today, after about a week's searching - but it was definitely worth the wait, don't ya think? 🎁

You watch a programme on TV for the 5th time cos Dusty is in it... they've just repeated the first episode of the 'Soul Britannia' season on BBC4 (again!) 🎁

Awesome, Soph.

BTW kids, I get my album frames from Urban Outfitters, and I understand they have some stores in the UK now? They also do mailorder. I like the black but they also have silvah.

You have 2 different internet browsers opened at work so you can periodically read about and listen to Dusty (on the one that is totally devoted to her) while using the other for work.

You should be going to bed because you are knackered and you have a hugely busy day at work tomorrow , but you are listening to disc one of The look of love, and the particular choice of songs and the order they are in, is absolutely perfect for the mood that you are in, so you thing hang the time, open another bottle of wine, and as a result the next day you totally forget your lines during the powerpoint presentation. ( please do not let that last bit come true!)

neil 😊

You're checking out some books at the university library when you notice the clerk has a British accent. You ask if he is British and when he says yes, you point to the 8 Dusty badges on your knapsack 🎒 and ask him if he recognizes her, begin a conversation about how proud he should be, give him a badge and tell him to check out the website.

He asked if I were British when I slipped into the accent 🤪, and I used that as an opportunity to tell him I'd just returned from London, Dusty Day etc....he asked where, yada yada.

YOu don't know when to stop, do you Matt.

Now, for my Dusty fan story of the day....you know you are a true
Dusty fan when you risk being late to go back into the house and grab a Dusty CD so you won't be without the sound of her voice for the 12 minute ride to work....

and the CD falls out of your hand, the case breaks open, and the CD lands on the driveway....
and you pick it up and say, oh I'm so sorry Dusty....

and you imagine that she forgives you and is going to be a secret angel to help you get through a difficult situation....which she did. ....
