hello to all I am seeking knowledge and advice please? I have been trying to buy some albums but none locally in the LP stock in Cardiff that I want. I have seen some on e bay but I dont belong to the site and I dont want to join them and bid etc. I wonder if any of you know where I can get trusted service from a store which would sell me decent LPs ? these are what I am looking for.

A girl called Dusty(philips blue cover)
Everythings C.U.D. (good one with all the original intact)
Dusty Definitely
Dusty in Memphis(the green cover)
Where am I going.
I have seen some mad prices on some sites but maybe one of you has a store near you where I can find good copies etc
thanks
Liz

Liz a good magazine you could try is Record Collector they usually have information on upcoming record fairs that might be in your area, record shops also place ads in the magazine so you might find something good near you.

There used to be a very good second hand record shop in Croydon called Beans but unfortunately I think they closed down.

Hi Liz, I think I got most of my copies from Ebay, and it's fine as long as your not worried about getting addicted. I haven't used it in ages but some of them used to have a buy it now price so you don't have to bid.
I checked through mine and I don't have any duplicates of these ones, just different versions/covers:(Can't find anything on Amazon either or on Eil. I dunno, your best bet's probably Ebay, or just checking in every record shop you come across in every city you go, that's what I did.
Sorry not to be more help.

Liz, eBay is a good resource, but it can get pretty pricy. Also, Where Am I Going? is hard to find period. I do think I have an extra copy of Dusty...Definitely I could send you. I'll have to check.

I got mine from e.bay too. I bought from the USA, UK, Holland and Japan. The green DIM can be pricey. I think I paid around £50 for an excellent copy but that was because I was outbid on a 100% pristine copy which went for around £100.

The others I bought were actually quite cheap and the covers are in surprisingly great condition. The vinyl looks mint/excellent/very good but there are some crackles and I think the records were cleaned prior to sale (that's the trouble with e.bay - you can't usually try and then buy). These albums include :

A Girl called Dusty (philips blue cover)

Everythings C.U.D. (everything fine)

Dusty Definitely

and I got a mint (still cellophane wrapped) copy of 'A Brand New Me' from the USA for hardly anything. I thought it might be warped after all these years but it wasn't. 😊

Just remember to demand that any LP is sent in a hard unbendable cover.

Hi Liz,

I agree with everyone else here that eBay is the way to go. All the albums you mention are either currently available or have been recently. I've got copies of most of these in lovely condition for next to nothing, but I don't have DIM yet as you do need to pay a fairly hefty sum for one in excellent or near mint condition.

I'd recommend that you don't go for anything that's in less than excellent condition (in accordance with the Record Collector grading system that most eBay sellers use) as you just don't know what you're getting with LPs that are listed as VG/VG+. Don't be afraid to ask the seller lots of questions!

Oh, and don't get addicted. 🙄

P.S. A Girl Called Dusty, ECUD, Memphis and I think WAIG are all currently on eBay. I recently got From Dusty With Love for 99p in absolutely stunning condition - very very close to mint indeed.

Reddingtons Rare Records may be worth a google. They trade on ebay but it may be cheaper dealing direct. They are base in Birmingham thanks everyone for your ideas etc. I will look again at the sellers such as Reddingtons. I dont do paypal and I dont trust ebay so will keep trying other places. I need to go to Swansea as well as there is a store there I had forgotten about . thanks to Frans and Taylor I was not attempting to deprive anyone of their own collections, but as ever generosity and help on here is wonderful, so thanks for the offers anyway.

I hope I have done the right thing now about these albums folks. I went on to musicstack and found two that I wanted that seemed ok so I have ordered them and will pay by cheque. I ordered E.C.U.D. £15 it says excellent standard. I also got my fav A.G.C.D. £10.80 and also described as excellent. fingers crossed now. I will see how these are and try to get the rest. Taylor if you really can spare me one of yours and dont mind then I will take you up on the offer and will sort the details out with you re cost etc, if you can e mail me on here?? 😊😊 many thanks all who encouraged me to take the plunge I couldnt do ebay but hope this site is ok. 😊 an update for everyone looking for vinyl outlets. I ordered AGCD from the hipcity records on this musicstack site and it arrived this morning. I havent played it yet but its looking ok so that is one down. I am awaiting ECUD from another outlet on there called "the left legged pineapple ltd" so lets hope that will arrive soon. I now am only looking for D.I.M. the green cover and where am I going, I also have a preorder for A.V.F.L. from Amazon, they may get it back in stock. so all in all I am making "steady progress" as they say in the Hospital world. fingers crossed I will find the rest.

Hello Liz,

Pleased to hear that you're having some success via the traditional method of vinyl hunting! Keep us informed of your progress. During the few days that I was without internet access, the two copies of DIM that I was watching on eBay (both in excellent condition) went for £11 and £14, which is pretty much unheard of. Very cross! I'll be very interested to know how you get on with tracking this one down.

yes Rosie I did look at the ebay ones but I just dont want to join it and do it,I know thats strange but I just dont like the stories I have heard from people who use it. anyway I like this method and my AGCD is fine so I think the ECUD should be here in the next few days. I have seen some DIM on the musicstack site but none suitable for me. perhaps you should have a look on there? 🤔

I bought some Dusty 45s and EPs from Reddingtons Rare Records a few years ago. I rang them up and they were really helpful 😊

Glad you found two already, Liz, I was looking at that Musicstack site, it looks good 😊

Good luck finding the others!
