With Dusty being inducted into the UK hall of Fame this year I got to thinking what other honours I would like to see her receive. She is a member of the original Rock'n Roll Hall of Fame since 1999 and of course received her OBE award that year.

One aspect of her career that I think should be remembered is her stand against apartheid in South Africa.

My idea would be to approach one of the South African universities to suggest they award a posthumous honorary doctorate to Dusty.

I would like to get other LTDers opinions on this whether you think it is a viable idea. If so perhaps we could send a joint email suggesting it.

I think that's a very worthy thought Clive and not something I ever would have thought of. I would like to see an annual award at the Brits in Dusty's name, probably for the year's outstanding female performer. I'd rather that, than a posthumous award directly to her, which would just be a one off.

I want them all.

And a statue.

Yeah. Actually - lets pick her best pose for a statue and get it erected somewhere she loved being.

And in my room.

And I love the thought of those other two as well!!! I can actually see the South Africa one happening!

Is there still a spare plinth in Trafalgar Square ?
the statue could go there.

There's a 'John Lennon Airport' in Liverpool, so anything is possible. A 'Dusty Springfield Award For Best UK Female' at the Brits would seem an obvious one - or an Cat sanctuary in her name.

'Dusty Springfield Award For Best UK Female'

Thats so awesome. Now how do we go about getting it set up?
