It's an apt picture for them to use as I'm sure the photo was taken on a visit to the Radio London pirate radio station. I never did get around to seeing the film.

🙄 another one with good eyes...lol

it took me days to figure out what this movie was. I'd never heard of it.

Apparently they didnt think the title would market well in America, so it was released here as...

Pirate Radio.

I heard it was also heavily edited. Isn't this what they did to Dusty's albums in the 60's???

Unfortunately, the film bombed at the Cinema.. and was released on dvd in fairly short order.

The clips I saw from it, did a great job at persuading me not to touch the 'boat' with a barge pole. 😊🙄

I saw the movie last week. It's still too long at 2 hrs despite having had an hour cut. As a result it's all very disjointed. Also considering it's supposed to be set in '67 I found it odd that it contains music from after that period!

Plus Spencer Davis on the far right next to Dusty.
